At 7 o'clock there was no standing room in either church or passages, and ladies were frequently borne out during services in a fainting condition. THE coroner's jury in the Granite Mill disaster have rendered their verdict. They find that the ladders of the Fire Department were insufficient; that, though all the appliances of hose and tanks in the building were used, fire was apparently ready for use, there was no water in them, the pumps being out of order; that due precaution was not taken in giving the alarm to persons at work in the attic, many of whom otherwise might have been saved; that the escape from the sixth story were not ample; but, in the construction of the mill the jurors believe it to have been the aim of the corporation to provide every facility that money could purchase, and the lessons of the disaster, for the escape of life from the mill in case of fire.

LATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Maj. H. T. Stanton is a candidate for Supt. of Public Instruction. Over grand jury found 73 indictments, not through yet. The late association meeting at Lexington agreed to be one of the most brilliant meetings ever held in America. Wm. Sellers was arrested in Louisville last week, on a bench warrant from Garrard. He gave bond for his appearance at Garrard court, and arrived in Lancaster last Monday. Parson Brownlow is an anti-civil rights candidate for Congress against the Radical nominee, and Democrats will support him. "See how the old thing (C. R. bill) works!" Hon. E. Y. Parsons received the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Louisville District. He is untied in politics, but a free orator and a member of a talented family. Regent Bowman, of Ky. University, has declined the position of Minister to Ecuador, recently tendered him by President Grant. John Young Brown nominated for Congress. Georgia Legislature conservative by 250 majority on joint ballot. Andy Johnson denies that he was ever a Republican. He claims to have been all his life a "constitutional Democrat." E. D. Standford, W. B. Caldwell and H. V. Newcomb re-elected Directors of the L. & N. R. R.

Our Shame Felt!
According to the seers, we are to have at least another huge war ere the final heating into culivators and patent reapers of the nation's sword and spear—ere the coming of that period yet hidden in the womb of time. "When nations shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Father Hycincinthe and Victor Hugo have joined Mr. Disraeli and the Pope in prophesying the approach of a tremendous war, which shall rage all over Europe and elsewhere. Mr. Disraeli predicted that the war would be a religious one, and that it would convulse the globe. The Pope described the impending struggle as one between the Archangel Michael and the hosts of Satan. According to the prognostications of Father Hycincinthe the coming war will be three-fold, and will include a fearful conflict between the popular rights and the power of capital in which the combatants will tear each other to pieces. According to the vaticination of Victor Hugo, the great and inevitable encounter is to be "between two principles, Republic and Empire."

Certain it is that we are living in an age of miserable shams. Our enlightenment is but the rocket's glare. Our polish and refinement is but the bloomy rind of Dead Sea apples, encasing in rosy beauty the ashes and worms of rottenness. Even our religion is too often the gilded mantle of selfishness and lust, and is not worth fighting over. We must, however, show the cloven foot soon or later. All Europe has been for two years on a holiday frolic. The Czars, Shahs, Princes, Emperors, Potentates and other royal dominions have been wallowing in celestial debauch, slaving fitted calves, and engaging in glorious, brotherly hand-shakings, huggings and out-gushings of slobbery affection; boasting of the beauties of the world's season of peace and civilization—the tuning down of old animosities, and the sweeping away of barbarous antipathies and prejudices—the universal reconciliation, and the millennial peace that reigns over the world!

It is all sham—all a sham. Right in the midst of this wide, long, fraternal hand-squeezing, preparations are constantly being made for coming slaughter. England has been fitting out her navy; buying powder and lead; yet assuring every body that she is earnestly, tenderly, for peace. France has strained every nerve to pay off her German indemnity, and the while pushed every manufactory of arms and munitions, and is still organizing and training a new host of warriors—yet she desires it understood that she's for peace. Prussia is drilling her legions, converting all her metal into engines of death, and levying pirate contributions to her tributary, yet she cries vehemently for peace, for unmingled peace. Russia is draining the storehouses of every land on the globe of artillery, breech-loading rifles, and army equipments; yet she begs to state that she is emphatically for peace. Turkey is arming and manning her barbarous hordes; yet she meekly declares herself for peace, now and forever. All Europe is converting herself into a vast armory and powder magazine. The strength and genius of the world are being expended in inventing and manufacturing new and more horrible implements of death and destruction—taxing the murder-mills of the world, to their utmost capacity. Crowned ruffians meet, touch glasses, and exchange courtesies, while their foundries are forging the dread machinery of their mutual devastation; but they are all for peace—dove-like peace. "Peace" is the rallying cry of the age, while the nations who call themselves civilized are preparing for a conflict, such as the last fifty years has never witnessed or dreamt of. When every river in the world will run crimson with clotted gore. Coming events cast their black and lurid shadows before. "There's blood on the face of the moon."

The Louisville Daily Gazette is encouraged by a letter from Stanford, from which it quotes as follows: "Your article upon the escape of Wilson was won many admirers in this locality. The people want an influential journal, that has the boldness to take hold of individual criminals. They have no confidence in these sensational sheets that talk of crimes in general, and throw the blame upon all sections of our State alike." It promises to continue its warfare against the influence of money in shielding crime from punishment. It says: "Kentucky must be relieved from the opprobrium that covers her name with infamy all the country over. And we never can relieve her until we dissolve the mutual admiration society which has been the name of Kentucky for so many years. We must realize the fact that a Kentuckian is better than anybody else's conduct. We must learn to look upon murder when committed by a Kentuckian as foul as a crime as when committed by a citizen of some other State. We must, above all things, disabuse our minds of the erroneous idea that Kentuckians are too good to be hanged. We must use the gallows industriously, and put a summary stop to imprisonment as a punishment for murder. God is wiser and more just and impartial than any Legislature, and He provides DEATH as the penalty for murder. That's first principle. That's sense. A murderer once hanged and buried cannot commit other murders. The grave is a penitentiary from which executive clemency cannot rescue the murderer, and turn him loose to again prey upon his fellow-men the first time he gets drunk. Holding to these opinions, we oppose the law leaving it to juries to imprison or hang, as they may choose. It is silly, it is mischievous, it is infamous. This year the murder calendar in our State has been more than doubled already, and a quarter of the year yet to come; and this infamous act of the General Assembly is the cause thereof. We must work for its repeal, every one of us who value our own lives and the lives of our neighbors, and the good name of our commonwealth. We also must work for the removal of the barricades the statutes have erected around the murderer, and which effectually resist every attempt of justice to sustain the majesty of the law, and exact of him the penalty of his crime. All these things the people of Kentucky must accomplish, for the honor of our grand old State.

The facts developed in the trial of the parties accused of the murder of Ferrell at Millidgeville last week fully warranted the judgement of the court. Though Ferrell was upon the aggressive during the day, and violated the peace and good order of the village the killing could easily have been averted had the parties whom he maltreated placed that reliance in the strong arm of the law which it warrants, and have had him promptly arrested for his disorderly and brutal conduct towards offending citizens. We must rely more upon the laws of the land, and promptly cause the arrest of all evil-doers—those who are guilty of the slightest misdemeanors as well as the perpetrators of the most shocking crimes—and depend less upon our strong arm and well loaded revolvers and shot-guns for protection. So long as we are cursed with the prolific parent of crime, whiskey, in our midst, making blood-thirsty savages of peaceable and orderly citizens, we must enforce the law against those who patronize this fountain of crime and thus become law-breakers. Hang murderers, in prison homicides, and promptly punish all minor offenses, is our motto. Desperados must be punished—but it is not necessary that everybody turn executioner to insure their punishment!

If the people of Kentucky are in earnest about bringing to punishment the violators of law—if they would insure the prompt and inevitable punishment of him who deliberately imbuces his monster hands in the blood of his fellow-man—if they sincerely desire that justice be found which will execute the decrees of God and nature by stamping a criminal him who tears a human life from its frail casing, and casts upon the christian world's cold bitter charities, a broken-hearted widow and fearful group of helpless, desolate orphans—let them "speak out in school" and fearlessly, boldly, enter their condemnation against the bravadoes that infect the country. Public sentiment fairly and lawfully expressed, can make lawlessness odious. The pulpit and press stands ready to open the war against crime and criminals of every class, individually and collectively, with vengeance, and effect, whenever the people who are the sufferers, morally, bodily and pecuniarily, show a determined purpose to stand by us and uphold us in the hazardous work.

We wish no especial case in view, we might venture to suggest that a little reformation in the matter of accepting bail for criminals, and the collection of forfeitures on bail bonds, in the courts of Kentucky, is needed. Absolute ownership of real estate to the full amount of the bond should be required in all cases; and payment to the last farthing enforced if we would insure the forthcoming of criminals for trial. As well show too much leniency to murderers as to the bondsmen of criminals; and the officer or court that practices the "compromising" game "in this day and generation," does it at his own peril. At no time in the history of the country have the people of the Commonwealth taken such an interest in the proceedings of our courts as now. They stand ready to approve the good acts of their officers, and unhesitatingly condemn the bad.

Throughout the name of Kentucky abroad may be but the synonym for lawlessness and crime, she can proudly point to a Governor whose integrity stands unshaken by bribes' gold and parasites' blandishments—who feels that he has more higher, nobler duties than opening the prison doors of blood-stained assassins, or genteel throat-cutters, even when it pays or wins a dozen votes. Such has been his record, and we may, with perfect confidence, bank upon his future non-abuse of the pardoning power.

Fire, water, whisky, pistols, knives, guns, and even stones are steadily performing their work of death and desolation. Last week, in the vicinity of Bowling Green, two negroes got into an altercation—"an old family feud" existing between them—when one of them picked up a stone and sent the other shivering into the next world.

PULASKI COUNTY NEWS.

BY WILL C. CURD.

SOMERSET, KY., Oct. 5, 1874.

Our Circuit Court adjourned on Saturday night last, about 10 o'clock, having been in session but one week. The early adjournment being required that the Judge and Attorney might be present at the called court in Lancaster, which commenced on the 15th inst., for the purpose of the investigation of and trial of the parties engaged in the recent troubles in Garrard county—the appointment of this court having been made by the Judge not thinking at the time that it would conflict with ours—he has therefore called a court to commence in Somerset on the 20th Monday in December next, for the trial of equity and criminal cases, until which time all cases of this character were continued, a few cases, however, being excepted and continued over until the March term, 1875. During our two-day court a considerable number of equity cases were disposed of, and quite a number left under advisement, the Judge not having time to examine the papers. The common law actions were generally continued; and but few trials in criminal or penal cases. Caroline Beatie, of color, charged with grand larceny, confessed her guilt, who is now on her way to the penitentiary where she must remain for the short time of twelve months. Judge Mike H. Owsley presented his commission, took the several oaths required by law and entered upon the duties of his office, which he discharged in a dignified yet unostentatious manner. His charge to the Grand Jury was a most excellent and impressive one, and must reflect honor upon himself and the judiciary of Kentucky. His reference to recent troubles and outbreaks in our State was an earnest appeal for the strict enforcement of our laws and the punishment of all offenders; calling the jury's special attention to the recent trouble and bloodshed which continue to flow from the practice of carrying concealed weapons, the sale of ardent spirits, and the gaming table. Consequently the jury returned into court eighty indictments, mostly for the commission of the offenses above named. The Judge was found regularly on the bench at the appointed hour, holding court until 10 o'clock each night; dispatching business in an able manner, while he at all times adhered to strict discipline and good order in the court room. Our Commonwealth's Attorney, Mr. George Deary, Jr., is quite an agreeable gentleman, and managed the business of the Commonwealth with that zeal and determination which convinced all that he will do his duty in all respects fearlessly and impartially. Will C. Curd was appointed Master Commissioner of the Pulaski Circuit Court, and E. D. Poreh and O. H. Waddle Examiners for Pulaski county, for the ensuing four years, by Judge Owsley.

Our town has been unusually quiet and peaceful for the past two weeks, notwithstanding many strangers and county citizens are daily seen upon our streets. Business of all kinds appears brisk, while the general aspect of Somerset presents a spirit of progress and improvement. The railroad contractors in our county are progressing finely with their work. Many of them contemplate its completion in the time assigned them has expired. One Irwin Taylor shot and wounded David Ball, a few days since in the vicinity of Point Isabel, with intent to kill, for which crime he is indicted. Wesley McFerron, who was brought to our town from Mt. Vernon, one day last week, upon a warrant for stabbing a railroad hand in our county, a few months since, made his escape from the guards and is now running at large. John W. Hall, a gentleman of long experience in the staging business, is now running a line from this place to Stanford, leaving Somerset on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, and returning on the following days. He is an accommodating and careful driver. Married—on the 24th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, Maj. W. N. Owens, by the Rev. Jesse Walden, of Lancaster, Mr. Ephraim C. Hays to Miss Lizzie Owens. Attendants: Messrs. J. B. Crawford, J. Huffaker, Jno. Canant, Miss Anna Gibson, Laura Owens, Mollie Owens. Many of Ephraim's friends were present to witness the serious, solemn ceremony and promises which bound together as one two true and confiding hearts. A brilliant reception was given them at the Somerset House on the evening of their marriage by Mr. S. G. Cundiff and lady. Since which, frequent entertainments have been given the happy couple by our citizens. Ephraim, from boyhood up to the present, has been one of our dearest friends, and we now heartily congratulate him again upon his success in obtaining the hand of one of Pulaski's fairest, most worthy daughters. May their future glide along sweetly and peacefully, and all their anticipations of happiness be fully realized, and nothing occur to cause them a moment's sadness, or to regret that their destinies were thus united.

Rev. W. H. Deltzer, who was assigned to Somerset Circuit, M. E. Church, South, will preach in Somerset on the 20th Sabbath of the present month. The special term of the Garrard Circuit Court convened at Lancaster last Monday for the trial of parties engaged in the recent troubles at Lancaster. Up to Wednesday evening they had not succeeded in procuring a jury for the trial of the first case upon the docket, though over seventy-five citizens of the county have been examined. Everything is quiet. Sellers is in town under guard of militia, though no violence is threatened him by anyone. The country demands a fair trial of both parties to the indictments, and if the juries are not packed, and a fair trial is had, and the guilty suitably punished, it ought to be the end of the unfortunate troubles.

The Lebanon Standard has conversed with a gentleman who saw Bill Wilson last Wednesday week in Casey county and had a talk with him. Wilson said that when he leaped from the car he made the best time he could to the small stream near by and proceeded until he came to a deep hole shaded by a thick and low-hanging clump of willows. Here he stopped and lay several hours with all his person, except his nose and eyes, immersed in the water. From his covert he could very distinctly see his pursuers searching for him, and they several times approached quite near to his hiding place. A sum of money was made up for him in Casey, and it is given out that he has left the country.

FLORIAN CRIBB.
"Put away a ship, at random, and find a mark the other little man."
The latest style silk hats at Tevis'.
LADIES' valises and traveling bags in abundance at Tevis'.

TEVIS has hats of all grades, styles, prices, shapes, colors, shades and finish.
TEVIS has a splendid assortment of men's underwear in wool, merino, and cotton.
TEVIS has boots and shoes for men and boys—enough to shoe Sherman's army—all sizes and qualities.

"Fly from the cup that inebriates—the spring of tumult, source of strife"—and take refuge in Parsons' draft ale.
JIM DUDDERAR is determined to price shoes and gaiters that nothing can be saved by buying at retail in Louisville.
TEVIS will shortly make a transit in order to get nearer to E. H. Hayden's store where the latest style goods are to be found.

Now is about the best time of the season to buy your winter boots, and we know of no better place to buy them than at Hayden's.
TEVIS has overcoats running in size from No. 30 to No. 44, and in price from $5 to $50. No trouble to fit you, suit you, and suit you.

TEVIS has gloves and hosiery, suspenders, shirts, linen and paper collars, handkerchiefs, scarfs, ties, bow cravats, and buttoned shirts.
The Stanford Mills, owned by B. Mattingly & Co., will grind wheat and corn for one-half toll, the same toll that water mills take.

"To the side of the sparkling bowl, there clings a scorpion that stings," but Parsons' draft ale cools and refreshes, while it never inebriates.
TEVIS has trunks and valises of every grade and quality from the finest Russian leather hand-bag and sole-leather valises to the commonest black catfish.

Joining from the immensity of Hayden's new stock of furniture the matrimonial and new housekeeping glances will range fearfully in this locality this winter.
Go to Tevis' and examine and price his stock of children's clothing before buying the piece goods to make them, and you will save money, time and trouble.

The next eclipse of the moon will be observable in that one place in the world, and the eclipse of all four planets for cash can be seen alone at Hayden's store.
You can NOT DO BETTER when buying your Fall and Winter clothing than go to J. W. Winter & Co. Louisville. This is the acknowledged head quarters for bargains.

JAN A. DUDDERAR invites the public to call and see his best Monday (court day) and test his stock and prices before purchasing their stores, gaiters, trousers and other house-furnishing goods.
REWARD.—The world is crazy to capture Charlie Row to get that princely reward. Why, Tevis offers double that amount for a boy, youth, or child that he can't fit in boots, shoes, hats, or clothing.

To avoid colds, coughs, hoarseness, influenza and other kindred complaints, buy your winter boots, underwear, and overcoats early; and to avoid utter and complete bankruptcy, get them from Hayden.
JIM DUDDERAR guarantees every store and gaiter he sells to be in perfect order when it leaves the house. Parties who buy at retail in the cities pay higher prices and take the risk of breakage and loss.

IF YOU WANT TO SAVE MONEY in buying your new suits, go to the great clothing house of J. W. Winter & Co. corner 3d and Market streets Louisville, you have only to see their clothing and hear their prices to be convinced.
FOR SALE.—A 26-inch corn butt, "Queen of the South"—in good running order; also a Gardner's Mill, used but a short time, for sale at the Stanford Woolen and Flouring Mills. Address, B. Mattingly & Co., proprietors, Stanford, Ky.

JOHN BILLINGS says that next to a new bonnet, a new coat is the most soothing thing in the world to take home to a faithful wife. Indeed, it is a most comforting thing to have in the kitchen. Go to Jim Dudderar for the best and cheapest.

SUITS MADE TO ORDER—Go to J. W. Winter & Co. corner 3d and Market streets Louisville, and see their splendid line of new styles in French and English diagonals, hosiery, straight line, and all the best and latest designs in fancy suitings, you will be sure of a stylish fit, at a low figure.

NOTICE.—On the 12th of October, it being county court day, I will proceed to sell at public outcry, in Stanford, Ky., all of the household furniture of the late Mrs. F. M. Hayden, consisting of carpets, bedsteads, 2 sets of cane bottom chairs, 1 set of parlor furniture, 1 hat rack, 1 washstand, several feather beds, 1 cook stove, &c. W. C. TAYLOR, Adm'r.

If we were a farmer, and had an apple orchard, and possessed the wherewithal of which we haven't, we should buy that little, cheap, indispensable cider mill at Owsley & Hopper's. It costs only $22, and one load of apples or two barrels of vinegar will pay for it. It is light and easily handled, can be worked by a little boy, who can make a glass of cider in a minute.

HOME JOTTINGS.
The eclipse of the moon will occur at midnight, on the 24th.
SUMMER has departed, but still the "boys" take their ante-matrimonial strolls.
LINCOLN COUNTY Court next Monday week, Court of Claims meets the Tuesday following, or October 13th.

A BIRTH in Stanford which we were just made aware of: To the wife of Burt Weaver, on the 21st of September—a son.
THE Lincoln county Grangers will be ably represented in the State Grange by Mr. Jas. A. Harris, Master of Stanford Grange.

A NUMBER of stockholders in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, have left this vicinity to attend to the election of Directors.
MR. BEN GRANGER keeps riders in a water cooler, and his granger friends ride for miles to try it. Result: a match game of scientific vomition.

REB.—We regret to chronicle the death on Thursday last, of Miss Maggie, daughter of Mr. Thos. B. Hill, of consumption. She suffered a long and painful illness, but has gone to receive a recompense of reward.

CAPT. W. A. COLLIER and two daughters, and John Silvers, of Somerset, were in town yesterday en route for Louisville; Capt. Collier and Silvers to purchase their winter stock of goods, and the ladies to visit the Exposition.

DIVISION ENGINEER WALLACE has been with us several days resting from his onerous labors on the C. & R. R. and recuperating his health, which has suffered considerably by the severe tax upon his energies for the past five months.

MESSEURS BEN, BLACKBERRY, of this county and Robt. Beasley, of Garrard, en route for Oregon, were robbed of drafts on New York for about $300, at Cincinnati the other day. They promptly telegraphed to have payment stopped, and will doubtless sustain no loss.

THE party who took a pistol from the overcoat pocket of a gentleman at a certain place lately has carried the joke far enough, and will do no violence to his character if he returns it to the owner immediately; otherwise he will answer a writ for larceny. We mean business, young man!

APPLICATIONS for license to keep tavern and retail liquors will be made at the October term of the Lincoln County Court by the following persons: J. S. Pennalacker, Whortontown; John B. Mahle, King's Mountain; A. S. Myers, Stanford; Henry Watts, near Gum Sulphur.

AN alarm of fire, on last Saturday night, resulted from the overturning of a coal oil lamp at the millinery store of Mrs. L. Beasley. The fire was soon extinguished without damage. We noticed Pat Lavery was on hands promptly with one of the Champion Fire Extinguishers ready for service.

MR. MAT. CROW, of Colorado, is on a visit to his father in this county, looking as handsome as ever. He is still well pleased with mining life, and should be, as his prospects to realize a handsome fortune from the sale of his mine, are very flattering. He will remain with us several weeks.

MR. J. S. FISH, of Crab Orchard, has sold his farm to our old friend, Hiram Roberts, who will return from Colorado next month to spend the remainder of his day in old Kentucky. Mr. Fish left for Missouri prospecting for a new home, and will probably remove from our county in a short time.

OUR young friend Al. Lynn, son of Mr. Craig Lynn, who has journeyed in Colorado for the past eight months, returned home slightly improved in health a few days ago. We received an interesting letter from Mr. Lynn a few weeks since from Colorado as a great sanitarium, which we have not found space to publish.

ONE of our county correspondents, Mr. Wm. R. Gresham, was married to Miss Mary L. Gresham, on the 3d inst. He sent us a farewell address to his bachelor associates for publication, which we are compelled to defer for lack of space. May their union be productive of more than ordinary happiness, perfect peace, and abundant prosperity.

THE Board of Trustees for the town of Stanford is composed at present of the following citizens, who are striving in genuine patriotic style to perform the onerous duties devolving upon them: M. G. Nevins, Pres.; D. F. Bash, clerk; A. G. Pendleton, M. Bruce, James Reynolds, Jas. N. Davis. Only two of these were members of the original board.

We would remind the teachers of public schools around here that there is no organization in operation in this locality for the prevention of cruelty to animals; and they owe it to posterity, in conducting their schools, to remember the wholesome advice given by Lord Byron:

"O ye who teach the ignorant youth of nations, Holland, France, England, Germany, or Spain, I pray you teach them upon such occasions: Tell them their morals—never mind the pain."

FALL COURTS.—The Fall terms of the Circuit Courts of Garrard, Boyle and Pulaski have been held. The Lincoln County is the next in course, beginning on the 12th of Monday, and continuing twelve days. The Wayne Court follows on the first Monday in November, nine days. Russell Court, Tuesday next after the second Monday in November, nine days; Casey Court, fourth Monday in November.

MR. J. H. FISH, with his family, returned from Colorado last week, to Crab Orchard. On the way he had the misfortune to lose his little son, Thomas Collie, aged 11 months, with cholera infantum. He died at Wright City Missouri, and his remains were brought home for burial. Mr. Fish succeeded very well in his business of herding, and was satisfied, but not so with his wife. He will go to Missouri to locate soon.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees for Stanford, a contract was entered into with the JOURNAL for the publication of the proceedings of the Police Court every week. Those who violate the laws and are arraigned before the police judge, may expect their names to appear in print, and can attach no blame to us. We hope this will have a salutary effect in restraining and intimidating constitutional ordinance-breakers.

THE series of meetings at the Baptist church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. V. E. Kirtley, assisted by the Rev. Doctor Chambliss, of Bardonia, has attracted unusual interest, and from the indications the past few evenings will prove a grand revival of religious interest among the membership and attendants. Doctor Chambliss is a fervent, lucid and logical speaker, and successfully engages the undivided attention of his audience; while Elder Kirtley is a zealous and earnest exhorter, and is held in high esteem by the community. We have no information as to when the meeting will close.

BURNISHED steel beads are used in such lavish profusion on the waist of dresses that a woman fashionably attired seems to be clad in burnished armor, and the popular basque is called, appropriately, the cuirass. As to skirts, they are tied back so closely as to produce a mummy-like effect, and prevent all elasticity and grace in walking. Although Eastern fashion has been imitatively decided that the kangaroo style of carrying the hands is absolute, the use of our young ladies still persist in the retention of the habit which has become second nature with them, and which might be used as an argument by Darwinians.

With the facilities we enjoy, and the abundance of capital possessed by many of our citizens, it is not complimentary to say that Stanford is almost destitute of manufactures. While the blue spiral smoke from a score of factories of various kinds should ascend from our midst, we have but few manufacturing enterprises of which to boast. Of the Stanford Woolen & Flouring Mills, B. Mattingly & Co., proprietors, we may well feel proud. Under the auspices of Mr. Mattingly, this enterprise has increased in proportions every year, until it now enjoys an enviable reputation for its products at home and abroad. A year or two ago the energetic proprietor, to accommodate the community, and supply a much-needed enterprise, added to his woolen mill a grist mill of very limited capacity. This proved insufficient to satisfy the demands, and lately he has erected and attached to the factory a flouring mill with a capacity of from 20 to 30 bushels per hour, having all the modern improvements for cleaning wheat. Mr. Robert Mattingly, who has charge of the grain department, assures us that he rarely ever makes less than 38 lbs. of flour to the bushel of good wheat. The demand for their flour is at present limited to local consumption, but its reputation will very soon be such that the shipping demand will almost equal their capacity to furnish flour. They have now in store about 8,000 bushels of choice wheat which they will convert into flour as fast as it is ordered. Their custom grinding is increasing every day. From a notice elsewhere it will be seen that they take the same toll charged by water mills. Near the factory a building designed for an office and grainary approaches completion. An enterprising man like Mr. Mattingly is truly worth an army of drones in any country. Success to the Stanford Woolen & Flouring Mills.

THE ARMY worm has met a formidable enemy in the shape of a little black worm which naturalists call the larva of "the line of the Apidae," which hunts up and devours the army worm by millions.

MR. J. S. OWSELEY, on last Monday, delivered to Mr. Bell, of Louisville, 30 head of the lot of 100 head of cattle recently purchased by Mr. Dick Moore. They were of the "tail end," and weighed 1540 lbs.

GEORGE BRIGHT showed us a sample of Rappahannock wheat grown by R. L. White in this county, which was the clearest looking, fullest grained and had less chaff in it than any we have seen. Mr. White raised twenty-three bushels to the acre on medium good land.

(it being county court day), 12 or 15 head of splendid young horse stock, principally from two to four-year old fillies. Two young stallions, one three and the other four years old last Spring. All of which are Stonewall Jackson stock—well adapted to combined purposes. I will also offer 2 good Jacks; 8 male colts, and 2 yearling mules. Terms: A credit till January 1st, 1875, will be given on approved security. LEVI HUBBLE, Shelby City, Ky.

MR. GEORGE ASHLOCK placed us under renewed obligations for another supply of choice apples from his fine young orchard, the other day. He informs us that he can see Squire Murphy's blind and raise him twenty-two. He counted 122 Janz apples upon one small branch not quite 1/4 of an inch in diameter, the fruit hanging in clusters and well-matured. This caps the capstone so far as heard from, and we give the horns to the Dix river bluffs again over the Hanging Fork valley.

At the sale of the personal property of Christian Engelman, deceased, on last Tuesday, a large crowd was in attendance, and stock and crop sold at its value. Capt. Higgins, who officiated as auctioneer, made the following report to the JOURNAL: 7 head of common horses from $30 to $75; work mules $40 to $80; 2 yearling mules $52 each; 3 male colts, $36 per head; a number of cows and calves ranging from $25 to $40; dry cows from $20 to $35; 2 vokes of steers, $22; 6 yearling mules at $18; calves from $10 to $16; 35 head of 2-year old cattle at $3.35 per cwt. About 200 bushels of wheat at $7.00 per bushel; corn in the field at $1.92; 2 c.

H. HELM'S SALE.—A. K. Denny, Trustee for H. Helm, of this county, sold at Lexington October 1st, the following blooded horses: Colonus, a beautiful stallion, grandson of Imp. Sovereign, to J. B. Brown, Paris, at $113; bay mare, Anna, 6 years of imp. Yorkshire, 8th dam, sold to Denmark, to R. C. Harris, Lincoln; sorrel horse, 6 years old, by Gill's Vermont, 1st dam by Gray Eagle, to A. H. McCloud, at $406; Allie (John T. L. Crow) black gelding, by Almont, to J. H. Nichols, at $226.

THE examining trial of Mike Ely, Wm. Gresham, and Feland Hall, charged with the murder of Joseph Ferrill, at Millidgeville, in Lincoln county, on Sunday, the 27th inst., took place at Stanford on Friday and Saturday last, before Magistrates W. R. Carson, of this district, and D. L. Lamm, of Harrisonville district, and resulted in a verdict of manslaughter, and the prisoners held to answer in the sum of $1,000 each. Gresham gave bond with Geo. W. Carter, Jr., and Geo. Benedict, sureties. Ely gave Geo. W. Carter, Jr., surety, and Hall gave Wm. Foster and Wm. Gresham, sr., sureties. The bonds were accepted by the court and the prisoners released. Hon. M. C. Sanley, Capt. W. G. Welch, and R. C. Warren were for the defense, and County Attorney Reibitt, Col. Grant Woodford, of Liberty, and Jacobs & Rodes, of Danville, for the prosecution. Speeches were made by Sanley, Warren, Woodford, Rodes, and Reibitt.

POWERS' STORE, KY., Oct. 5, 1874.
Correspondence Interior Journal:
As you have other correspondents for our county we shall not burden your columns with lengthy, prolix articles of matter, but since it is claimed, and I believe, universally conceded, that along the Rolling Fork lies the Eden of Casey, I feel inclined to hope, notwithstanding we have no "Ethelberts," that an occasional paragraph from us will not be entirely ignored.....As a county, Casey is known to be rugged and mountainous, hence it is the "upper ten," and not infrequently some of the "lower ten," of the Blue-grass region are constantly associating in their minds with the people of Casey, their inelegant, uncouth ideas and notions of "the knobs." But let us say to all such, that these opinions are more frequently founded upon prejudice and corrupt educational bias than upon any good reason. It is doubtless true, as a rule, that the educational standard of Casey is inferior to that of Lincoln, but for the people along the Rolling Fork, we claim a place second to none. Our schools from Hustonville to Bardonia are equal to the best in the State. Our churches lift their lofty, golden spires as if to say, "We are the very heavens." Our residences that deck the green carpeted mountains on either side of the pike would reflect honor upon any country. The enterprise and industry of the sturdy Granger may be seen peeping forth from every vale and dale along the valley. His barns and granaries are as richly stored with luxuriant products as the model husbandman's of more fertile countries. Plenty is written upon the adipose walls of every living creature. As an evidence of enterprise, our school teachers and preachers are paid as liberally as in any rural district of the State—and while we regret to learn that only a few copies of the INTERIOR JOURNAL are delivered through our post-office, our citizens are nevertheless a reading people. The writer has had the pleasure of teaching several different schools in Lincoln during the past few years, but in no community of Lincoln, in which he ever taught, did he find the attainments of pupils so favorable and creditable as here. This speaks well for the people of Rolling Fork valley, and we have no doubt that they will continue to maintain their credit, and to have their names in the list of the State's scholars. We have just concluded one of the most interesting revivals of religion, at the Rocky Ford Church that was ever our good pleasure and profit to attend. The house, large and commodious, was filled to overflowing from its inauguration to its close. We never witnessed a meeting characterized by so much of the profound solemnity of earnestness and feeling upon the part of an audience. It continued sixteen days without the least perceptible flagging of interest, and the people only regret that other engagements equally imperative demand attention of the worthy heralds of the Cross. The result was twenty-two conversions by baptism, and five by letter, to say nothing of the good it did the church. The Rocky Ford Church is purely Baptist, yet in the adjacent communities are found many persons who claim to be exponents of other doctrines. A. D. Rash is the regular pastor, and night well he has proclaimed the tidings of his mission.....On Friday night last, the dry goods store of Abstrid Bros. was broken into by a band of robbers, who falling in and finding ready cash, carried off about $400 worth of goods. The house was entered by means of a window. Circumstances indicate that there were quite a number of the robbers banded together, as there were evident traces that some stock pilfered while others plundered the house.

Notice to Delinquents.
A large number of our subscribers are upon the delinquent list for the present year, and some are owing us for last year. We have been too indulgent for our own good and must insist upon the immediate settlement of all subscriptions. Subscribers who do not remit their indebtedness by November 1st will be charged in accordance with the terms announced at the beginning of the year—20 per cent added to their accounts. We will resort to the Red Cross plan of dunning after next week. Timely notice to all.

THE FERRILL MURDER.
